

[The pelican] revives its young by sprinkling them with its blood, as when we concern ourselves less with matters of flesh and blood and concentrate on spiritual acts, by conducting ourselves virtuously

Aberdeen Bestiary

[Consider the] pelicane who stricketh blood out of its owne bodye to do others good

Lylly
1554-1606

To my good friends thus wide I'll open my arms; And like the life-rendering pelican, Repast them with my blood.

Laertes in Hamlet
Act IV, Scene V
William Shakespeare

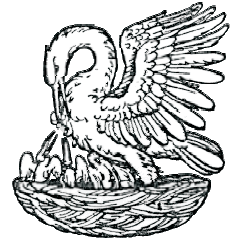

You cannot have a proud and chivalrous spirit if your conduct is mean & paltry; for whatever a man's actions are, such must be his spirit.

Demosthenes
384 BC - 322 BC
Third Olynthiac

He who wishes to secure the good of others, has already secured his own.

The superior man is modest in his speech, but exceeds in his actions.

Confucius
551 BC - 479 BC
